Breakfast Social

Wednesday, May 5th

10:30am-11:00 (ET)/9:30-10:00 (CT)/8:30-9:00 (MT)/7:30-8:00 (PT)

I will “host” from my kitchen. Meet at our laptops with breakfast and/or beverage and chat with familiar and new colleagues. Prior to the conference, if compelled, by Friday, April 30th, send me a scan of your favorite breakfast/brunch/smoothie recipe (Micaela.sullivan-fowler@wisc.edu) and we will collate and share them with the membership, perhaps even on the website, soon after the conference.

Very Blueberry Scones (Smitten Kitchen) / Arlene Shaner

I’m attaching one of my favorite breakfast recipes, the blueberry scones from Smitten Kitchen (I’m assuming it is okay to share a recipe that is not my own recipe). One of the things I like the most about them is that they freeze really well, a benefit for someone like me who lives alone now and so am less inclined to bake because there is no one to share things with. But with these, I can just pop a frozen one into the oven and have a treat about 20 minutes later. – AS

Cheddar Scallion Drop Biscuits / Tegan Kehoe

The recipe I normally use for cheddar biscuits seems to have gotten lost when I moved to a new apartment a few months ago, but this one is fairly close. I don't buy buttermilk, I just make cheater's buttermilk with milk and lemon juice. I also usually make these half whole wheat. They're one of my favorite brunch treats. – TK

Muffin Madness (Moosewood Cookbook) / Rachel Ingold

This is a terrible scan. But I think it shows food stains (i.e., proof of how often I use it). – RI
